

Make our presence known at the upcoming March for Science on April 22, 2017!

The American Academy of Social Work and Social Welfare, the Council on Social Work Education, the National Association of Social Workers, and the Society for Social Work Research encourage all social workers to join this important March to demonstrate our passion, commitment and contribution to science.

Gather in Washington, DC

Participants will congregate at the National Mall at 8 am for a kick-off rally and event at 9. The rally will feature main stage speakers and several large teach-in tents around the Mall where scientists, educators, and leaders from a wide variety of disciplines will discuss their work, effective science communication strategies, and training in public advocacy.

Find the Grand Challenges for Social Work banner

OR

Attend a local march

In either case – make our social work presence known by wearing orange – a hat, a t-shirt, a scarf, whatever – be creative!

Follow the March on Twitter at #marchforscience. Link with your social work peers by including @CSocialWorkEd, @NASW, @AASWSWorg

Stay tuned for more details.

